Dear Parents,

As we approach the end of another full and rewarding school year, I wanted to take a moment to recognise Thank a Teacher Day, a national celebration that shines a light on the dedication, care, and commitment shown by everyone working in schools.

Thank a Teacher Day is about acknowledging the positive impact that educators and school staff have on children's lives — the encouragement they offer, the curiosity they spark, and the support they provide each day. It is celebrated to recognise the people who help shape young minds and create safe, inspiring places for children to learn and grow. This includes not only our teachers, but also our teaching assistants, support staff, office team, lunchtime staff, and every adult who plays a part in school life.

We are incredibly fortunate to have such a wonderful team here at our school. Every member of staff contributes something unique and valuable, and together they create the warm, nurturing environment our children experience each day. I am deeply grateful for them — and equally grateful for our fantastic children, whose energy, humour, and determination make our school community so special.

While there is absolutely no expectation, some families may wish to mark Thank a Teacher Day by sending a message of appreciation. If you would like to do so, the national Thank a Teacher website provides a simple way to share a note with any member of staff or the whole team:

At the end of a long and hardworking year, it's lovely to pause and celebrate the people who make our school such a warm and vibrant place. Thank you, as always, for your continued support.

With warm regards,

David Elliott-Hancock
